PHILADELPHIA'S BENEVOLENCE.

The Quaker City's Classified and Well-Ordered Charley.

Louise Stockton in The Continent. The Philadelphian is fond of classification and organization. If he has anything to do, he likes to make a little society for that specific purpose, and to have the proper officers and a suitable number of members. After the orgamzation is completed, a constitution adopted and printed in a neat pamphlet, he is ready to go to work. In this way he multiplies societies for chautable as for all other purposes. For each misery and misfortune the city has its separate relief. It has a home for old men and another for old women, and another still for married old men and women, and will yet, perhaps discriminate between the old man who is a bachelor and the one who is a widower. The woman who has a baby to take care of The woman who has a baby to take care of does not go the refuge intended for the one whose child has reached the traveler's majority of four years, and if she has no child at all, she repairs to a third relief fund. There is a legacy left to the city for the purchase of wood for widows, and—as if to prove that no misfortune is without compensation—preference is given to those whose poverty is due to dissolite husbands. The applicant must herself be sober and honest, but the less her deperted lord shared in these virtues the better for her. The testator who made this provision went still further. Supposing in his innocence that the number of candidates properly qualised might some time fail, and so leave a balance unprovided for, he ordered that whatever was left should be spent in warm clothing for the "oldest and barest" discharged from the hospital and "Bottoring-house," evidently having great 'compassion for the wrecks in life. For the opposite class—the people who mean to help themselves—Benjamin Franklin and John Scott, of Edinburg, made prevision. Each of these energetic men left $500 for a fund to be used in loans to young married artifleers who were qualified for acceptance by certain conditions.

On the 23d of February the city keeps the listituday of John Scott by giving twelve dollars worth of bread to the needy, but never more than two losves to one family.

This minute classification makes relief easy for those who have mastered the art of dividings that originates and keeps them all at work?

The Passion for Liveries.

The Passion for Liveries. Most of the wealthy society ladies, says a New York letter writer, have hitherto contented themselves with half livery for their coachman and footman and a white vest and swallow-tail coat for the butler; but this winter a more elaborate costume has been introduced. Hundreds of pairs of Parisian top boots have been imported for coachmen and footmen, who have heretotore worn their boots inside their trousers, and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt has taken the lead in putting her servants into full European costume, breeches, silk stockings ample west, and long, full coat of the shad ample vest, and long, full coat of the shad stomached variety, and a little linen picket under each car. The many colors of the French flumkey are superseded by a uniform claret, broken only by white silk stockings. I have never seen such a heralitic fronzy as prevails here now. Carriage doors have suddenly blossomed out in bright colors—red and blue and green—lons rampant, eagles flippant, and field argent with watted gales, and all sorts of cottiese and quarterings. Several old industries have spring into new life, founded on this revival of the rage for cautcheous. On Monday I called on a most noted livery tailer on Fifth

On Monday I called on a most noted livery tailor on Fifth sevence, who does the heavy business of the streng, who does the heavy business of the strength of the first of the heavy business of the city. "Americans are rushing into livery as never before," he said. His English eye twinkled as he added: "I fear they are losuing their solid Democratic principles. Men who have declared for years that they wouldn't have any of this "d—d nonseones" are drugged here by their ambitious wives to get James and Thomas put in livery and the family crest engraved on the brass buttons. New Yorkers who have made their million dollars by large dealing in potatoes, trass goods, or elementary their servants and what their family crest is. The father of the family knows that his father was a poor farmer in New Hampshire, or a stage driver down in New Jersey, and that is all he knows about it. So I fix them out with a crest. There was a man maned Chirt who wanted a cost-of-arms. I couldn't find any such name, so I sent it to England, where they equipped him with the coat-of-arms of Chirp. It will answer just as well, and I am sure that Chirp is a liveller and more cheerful name, if they should ever find it out."

How the India Ice Trade Began.

Harper's Bazar. It is said that one of Mr. Tudor's ship-masters related, on his return from Bombay, that he had just enough ice left to ask the officers in Bombay to something they had never seen in Bombay to something they had bever seen before—an iced punch. "You have made my fortune," said Mr. Tudor. "You have shown the pessibility of carrying ice to India, and nort time we will arrange things bettor," and the ship-master, who had feared dismissal for incompetency, saw his own fortune made, too Tyan Tourgeness's Story et a Feel.

There was a fool. For many years he lived comfortably. Then, little by little, the news came to him from all quarters that he was a brainless fellow.

The fool was very much confused by this and was very envious to find some way to put an end to such disagreeable news.

At last a sudden idea brightened his poor head, and without much ado he put it into practice. An acquaintance met him in the street and began to praise a famous painter.

"Morcy!" exclaimed the fool; "this painter was forgotten long ago. Don't you know that? I did not expect that from you. You are behind the times."

The acquaintance was confused and hastened to agree with the fool.

"What a beautiful book that is," another acquaintance said to the fool, talking of a new

"Gracious!" exclaimed the fool, "that book is good for nothing; there is not a single novel idea in it Everybody knows that. Didn't you know it? Oh, you are behind the times." And this acquaintance was also confused, and he too agreed with the fool

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed the fool, "he is a well-known seconder? He has cheated all his relatives. Who does not know that? You are behind the times."
And this person agreed with the fool and forsook his friend. And the same sort of remarks the fool made whonever they praised anybody or anything in his presence. Sometime hees added: "Do you believe yet in authorities"

Physical Characteristics of Old Age Youth's Companion.

The whole of life may be divided into three periods-that of growth, maturity and decay. The first is characterized by changes in substances, size, form, powers and susceptabilities The second is characterized by fixedness. Food no longer goes to growth, but simply makes good what the system wastes in its working. It is the period of labor, enterprise and intellectual mastership over nature. The third—say from sixty onward—is the opposite of the first, and would be of the secnd, were we not able to carry along our accumulated treasures of experience, knowledge cumulated treasures of experience, knowledge, habits, and manch of the momentum gained in our best years. At the bost, however, it is one of increasing decay.

Two facts, "atrophy"—wasting from lack of nourishment—and "degeneration"—change of muccular fibre into fat or lime—explain this decay in the main. The food may be enough, but the power to get rid of the waste of the system, and to replace it with good nerve, muscle, membranes, heat and strongth is lessened. Hence there is universal shrinkage, which is not confined to the muscles, but extends to the brain, spinal cord, nerve trunks, lungs, liver, and in a still greater degree, to the epleen and lymphata glands.

The heart and kidneys—by a wise provision of nature—rotain their normal size, the first even generally becoming larger. The vacuum around the shrivelled brain and lungs is filled with a watery fluid from the blood. The lungs are drawn toward the backtone, and the obest proportionately falls in. Their surface is quite uneven. Their power to throw off carbonic acid yearly decreases, becoming from one-fourth to one-half less. This is largely due to the weaker and shallower

The value less much of their electricy, and their walls—especially in the lower half of the body—increase in size and thickness. The blood is less in quantity, more finid and coagulates more readily. The pulse is slow, hard and wiry. The heart-beat is more irregular. The above are some of the characteristics of normal old age. A Child's Rebuke.

The four-year-old daughter of a well-known divine of this city is disposed to be dictatorial in a cunning way with her older brothers and sisters. While she was acting the wes tyrant ever her brother, the other day, her father deided to rebuke her for the first time, and elecided to rebuke her for the first time, and eto-quently set forth to her the kindness of her brother, and her duty to be kind in return. When the exhortation had ended, the little au-ditor, with tearful eyes and frame tembling with emotion, strode up to her venerable sire, and atrilang an attitude, said, between her sobs, "Y-you use too m-many words." The father/vainiy endeavored to suppress his laugh-ter as he went to his study and proceeded to cut down his next Sunday's sermon.

Old Fox Hunters' Mistakes. John Burroughs in The Century.

Nature will not be cornered, yet she does many things in a corner and surreptitiously. She is all things to all men; she has whole truths, half truths, and quarter truths, if not truins, haif truths, and quarter truths, if not still smaller fractions. The careful observer finds this out sooner or later. Old fox hunters will tell you, on the evidence of their own eyes, that there is a black fox and a silver gray fox, two species: but there are not; the black fox is black when coming toward you, or running from you, and silver gray at point blank view, when the eye penotrates the fur; each separate hair is gray the first half and black the last. This is a sample of nature's half truths.

She Knew Where They Were. A Taunion woman relates that she recently sat beside another woman, a stranger to her, in an Old Colony car. As the train passed Quincy the stranger pointed to the crowded hursis place so near the track, and remarked, in a complecent tone: "I've got three of the best brosbands lyin" there that ever a woman had" Medical Women in India.

How the Classes are Preserved in London Truth

The other day a clergyman refused to allow a laborer's child to attend his Sunday school because there was a frill at the bottom of her frock. Not long ago, in a parish in a western county, there was a little girl with long golden curls among the scholars at the national school. One day this child was noticed by the lady of the manor, an imperious aristocrat, who has long ruled the parish of the district with a rod of iron. swearing that they are bound to elect Next morning the parents of the child were informed that unless the curls were at once cut off, she could no longer be permitted to attend the school. The mother would not comto enable the members to go home ply with the order, and sent the child as usual; but a few hours later Tuesday. Then, too, they need a and ordered that the mistress should there and then cut off the offending curls, which was done, and the child returned in the evening cropped and shorn as though she had just come out of the county jail. Of course the parents might have sued "her clined, has reconsidered and decided ladyship," but then they would have been speedily hunted out of the amount of tyranny in rural districts. A Double Murder in Indiana.

A Be sut Sheriff Kills a Father and Son in a Drunken Quarrel.

EVENTS OF THE DAY.

Boonville, Ind., March 36.—This place was thrown into a furore of excitement yesterday morning by the news of a fatal shooting affray, which occurred shortly after midnight, in which Jackson Wallace was instantly killed and his son Thomas, aged about 20 years, was fatally wounded by Simon Williams, Deputy Sheriff of this county. The three men were in the Areade saloon late Thursday night drinking and quarreling, during which Williams left the saloon and went down the street to the Climax saloon, to which place he was followed in a few mainutes by the two Wallaces. Upon entering the saloon Jack Wallace told Williams he did not wish any bad feelings to exist between them, and invited him up to the harto have a drink. Wilhams accepted the invitation to drink and peace was established. After drinking a while the three men began braggling on their physical powers, each declaring that he was a bester man than the other. From one word to another the old quarrel was renewed, and Thomas Wallace walked up to Williams and in a bantering and tantalizing manner told him he could lick him any time, and presonting his face to Williams dared him to slap it. Williams drew his revolver at that, and, with Wallace standing no further than two but before he could reach Williams he, too, was shot, but held up until he reached and grappled with him, when Williams inced two more shots and Wallace fell to the floor and expired in about fifteen minutes. All three of the shots took effect. The balls were all extracted, and the wounds of both men pronounced fatal. The younger Wallace was taken to his boarding-house, where he now lies in an unconscious condition. The ball entered his body just above the public arch in the median line, and passed through the bladder. The physicians say he cannot possibly recover. Williams did not attempt to escape vesterday, but remained in town until morning, when he was arrested, and is now in jail. He will stand a preliminary examination to-day. Public feeling is against Williams, for he is genorally reparted as a desperate man, and dangerous, too. Although only about 28 years of age, he has been in a number of bad screpes. Wallace and his son were ordinarily good citizens, and were respected, notwithstanding they both dissipated more or less. Their remains will be buried to-day.

He does not live with his mother, but she opened it and found an assortment of confections, cake, oranges, colored eggs and Easter cards, the whole from its nature appearing to be an Easter offering. In the house were Mrs. Dreschier, her son, Willie Ferger, and two little children named Brohm. Mrs. Dreschier called in Mrs. Dr. Parsons, a neighbor, and her 2-year-old child, and they all ate of the contents of the box. Presently all began to grow ill and to vomit, each being attacked with severe pains. She said she knew that Mr. Francis was a married man, but he said he would leave his family and marry her. Mr. Dierkes informed her that there was no case with such evidence, and he accordingly refused the warrant. She was attended by Mr. Culver, her attorney and her brother, Wm. Simpson. BONDED WHISKEY.

How it will be Exported to Canada. Washington, D. C., March 30.—It has been reported that the fugitive American whisky could not be exported to Canada under the requirements of the law except by vescel, as it was understood by the distillers. The law does require the oath of the captain and hate of the boat to the manifest, but the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has ruled that the grossing of a ferry, as at Buffalo or Detroit, was sufficient fulfilment of the law, even where the train run on the boat without being unloaded. Should the whisky be taken to Canada, therefore, as it is thought now it will be, it can be taken by any route except by the suspension bridge.

The Secretary of State has authorized Minister West to say to the Canadian authorities that this Government has no objection to such change of the Canadian customs regulations as will admit of the Importation of boaded whisky into Canada from the United States in packages of leas than 100 gallons. It now remains for the Canadiat Parliament to decide whether such modification of their regulations shall be made.

IIAVANNA, FILL. March 30.—The attorneys of Theodore Gardner, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Welter, have been informed that the Supreme Court has peversed the decision of the Circuit Court of Mason county and granted him a new trial, which will come off at the next term of the court. Gardner is very happy over this news. Welter, whose wife was so brutally murdered, has fied the country, and poor Gardner has to bear the brunt slone, unless testumony shall show that the examination of Welter was a sham, and that he was the leader in the horrid crime. mer (frist.

A Suicide by Shooting. A Suicide by Shooting.

Delayan, LLL., March 30.—John Anthens, for many years a resident of this place and favorably known here, suicided yesterday morning by shooting himself through the heart with a pistol. He had loaded hit feffects in a car and was to have left yesterday morning for Dakota, with his family. In consequence of some indebtedness some attachments were swoment and the contents of his car selzed, which caused some trouble and delay, and the supposition is that in a fit of despondthe supposition is that in a fit of despond-ency he committed self-destruction. Mrs. Boulter of Brighton district was president, and about twenty delegates from adjoining counties were present. LITHFIELD, ILL., March 30.—One of the most prominent farmers in this section, on being interviewed on the condition of the wheat crop, says that on looking over his own fields be found, on exposing the roots of the poorest looking wheat, that they were apparently in good condition and beginning to send out shoots. He states that, in his opinion, with the prospects, there will be a full yield.

VANDALIA, ILL., March 30.—Roman Rover, a German, well known here, was his neck broken. It is supposed that while in a fit of apoplexy, to which he was subject, he fell head foremost out of the bed and striking on the floor bent his head under the body, in which position he was found. He was 62 years old, and served through the late rebellion. He was A most remarkable electrical phenomenon manifested itself on the line of the Union Pacific railway lately, between North Platte and Sidney. The influence, however, was felt perceptibly beyond those points. The rails were surcharged with a current of electricity, moving from west to east, to so high a degree that hand cars standing on the track were impelled at a fair rate of speed by it. One hand-car at Brule got away from the section men next east. The influence of the current was felt by many persons along the track, and no little excitement prevailed during its continuance.

HAVE your measures taken at B. Stine's late President Garfield, which has been observed since he was interred at Lake View Cometery, is not the pleasant thing it may seem. The post is not desirable. The burial ground is a lonely, solemn place, five miles from the city, and has the natural belongings of an uncanny place because of its hills and ravines. The soldiers, or at least the foreign born soldiers, have a dread and horror of this assignment. Three to whom the detail was given at different times came into disgrace through drunkenness, incurred by drinking liquor to sustain their courage during their awsome night vigil. And now a strong, healthy young Polander has gone insane from the morbid fears that preyed upon him during the two months he had been on duty at the tomb. This pitiable superstition is not shared by many American soldiers, but it is strongly defined in most of the foreign-born soldiery, especially among those who are Catholics. It would be well to put two men on duty, that a relief from melancholy thoughts might be had in companionship. A Good, Square Meal.

THE PRIMARY MEETINGS

in Council Last Night-Meetings Largely Attended. The unfavorable March weather of last night, was largely attended by members and friends of this prosperous organization and proved a pleasant affair in every respect. There were 22 well arranged numbers on the programme, for which excellent music was furnished by the Goodman orchestra, with Frank Goodman as leader. Knights John Dinneen and James Roberts sold and took the tickets, and the Master Knight of the lodge, Theo. Nelson, was around generally, making every one feel at home. The success of the party was largely due to Knights W. H. Bailey, Jacob Blenz, Louis Clendennin, A. Puhl and R. Bilsburgh, of the arrangements committee; J. F. Reynolds, Wm. Blenz, A. Breath and Joseph Henson, of the reception committee; Jack Hays, general manager, A. Puhl, W. H. The interest is so great that those who wish to get into the house must be at the church at the ringing of the first bell. Were the house as large again it would Bailey, J. C. Kennedy, Wm. The Decatur couplers, George Brett and Dick Devore, arrived home from Moline last night at eleven o'clock and brought with them only one-third of the receipts of the exhibition contest which came off at Moline on Wednesday evening last. The Moline couplers represented that there would be fully 1,000 people present, but there were only about 350 tickets sold at 50 cents each. And it was understood that Decatur and Moline would contest for the Braxmar medals which were won by the Moline couplers in Decatur last January. Brett and Devore were given to understand up to the moment they went on the stage that the medals would be put up, but at the very last moment one of the judges told our boys that nothing could induce the Moline boys to consent to taking any chances in losing the medals. Naturally our boys were greatly disappointed at the situation, but they went ahead, knowing that all they could get was their share of the "gate money." Several contests were had-one under the Iowa rules, and one under the Indiana rules. Though the Moline boys were defeated fairly each time, both in running and coupling, the resident judges decided in favor of the Moline team. Our boys used the finger string on the nozzle and claim to have got to the front each time. They say they were treated shabbily all the way through and consider themselves fortunate in getting off a little ahead of ex-

The opera house was well filled last evening to witness the new rendition of "Humpty-Dumpty" styled the Post Boy of Paris," with the popular George H. Adams in the title role. The troupe is an excellent one—by far the best that has ever visited this city. The scenery and mechanical effects are all new, and there was not a drone in the narty. George H. mechanical effects are all new, and there was not a drone in the party. George'H. Adams is justly styled the great Grimaldi and has lost none of his former greatness. The character of Mons. Nelton; the instrumental selections by the Ramierz family, Spanish troubadours, artistic tumbling by the Leslic's, concluding with a laughable elephant act, with Leon Whetony as the impersonator. There is a report that the mountains in the neighborhood of Souskin are swarming with the partisans of the False Prophet. It is very certain that all the lessurely clad Arabs who enter the town are armed with some kind of a weapon or other. There are about 8,000 inhabitants in Souakin, of whom forty alone are Europeans, mostly Greeks. Following my own personal conviction, I believe that English volunteers are necessary to help the Khedive with this difficulty of the False Prophet. The Soudan is a magnificent country, and it must never be allowed to relapse into slavery, but rather every effort must be made to back the Khedive's civilizing influence.

A Baptist Minister's Experience A Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Baptist minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me. I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtheria, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured them, and if taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten. I am will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obsticonndent it is a cure for the most obser-nate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week! I don't care how offensive their week. I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and esrache their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Eelectric Oil.
